Housing Forum

At this inaugural Housing Forum, ULI Asia Pacific will launch the region’s first Housing Attainability Index, which will provide practitioners with an easily accessible resource that can set a data-informed foundation for regional and local discussions of housing needs and solutions. The forum will also bring together public and private sector players to move the discussion on some of the latest topics such as built-to-rent, new housing concepts and smart homes.