Technology & Innovation Forum

The themes of innovation and technology in real estate have been discussed in depth for the past few years, and the most pressing question is - what does and does not work? How do we take stock on innovation in our industry, and better understand the immense developments in this space which are still very new? What do the established tech and engineering companies identify as the trends for the future and what are the emerging solutions developed by the start-up community in Asia Pacific? We will also explore the links between smart city technology and ESG solutions.
